

Let's Go Bowling

Long gone are the days of stretching a hide over a hollow log and calling it a djembe. The engineers at LP have recently introduced their new Aspire Bowl Shaped djembe line, featuring a unique design that's supposed to isolate the best parts of the djembe's sound (i.e., piercing rim pops and deep, prolonged low-end sustain) without all the unwanted overtones. The 25"-tall, mechanically tuned drums are carved from environmentally sustainable Siam oak, come outfitted with select 12.5" goatskin heads and feature EZ Curve rims, non-skid rubber bottoms, and are available in six distinct colors. List price: $299

Practice Made Perfect

Let's face it, we all need some incentive when it comes to sitting down with the pad and working through rudiments. ProLogix makes it a little easier with the new All-N-1 Russ Miller Signature Practice Pad. With a variety of interchangeable playing surfaces designed to replicate the actual feel of those on your drum set, the pad makes practice time feel more like play time. Some highlights include a replicated rim for realistic rimshots, cutouts along the edge for stable seating into a snare basket, and eight different brush map templates. $159.99
